The President's Message to the Study Body and the Graduating Class

We are all familiar with examples of Morris College graduates from five, ten or twenty years ago who tell us and who tell each other how their experiences at the College have continued to greatly influence their lives and their careers for many years after they graduated. Recently the college's accrediting agency, The College Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, adopted new regulations for college accreditation that add a somewhat reverse concept, namely, that the lives and careers of our graduates over the next five, ten and twenty years will in turn greatly influence the growth and development of the College.

Specifically, the reaffirmation of the College's accreditation will in part depend upon how successful its graduates are in entering and completing programs of graduate and professional study and in advancing up career ladders that relate to the training that they received at Morris College. This means that even as you have been dependent upon the College for acquiring the knowledge and skills needed to "make it" in the larger society, Morris College is now dependent upon your future success in order to "make it" in the larger community of colleges and universities. In short, the College and its graduates have become one, and we succeed or fail together.

As the College enters this new era of interdependence with its graduates, what should it expect to receive from them? For one thing it should expect a sense of loyalty and commitment to the institution that overrides any petty grievances that may have lingered from student days. This kind of loyalty and commitment will in turn make itself felt in graduates who speak well of the College, who recruit others to enroll, who become active in alumni chapters, and who make gift contributions to the College. It will also make itself felt in graduates who complete and return the very important survey forms that they will receive telling us about their lives and careers five, ten or twenty years after they graduated.

On the other hand, in this new era of interdependence, what should the College's graduates expect to receive from the College? They should expect to receive periodic publications informing them about the major trends and activities at the College. They should expect to receive additional career counseling and placement assistance, particularly during the first few years after graduation. They should expect to receive timely and accurate transcript services that certify their training to prospective employers and to graduate and professional schools. Finally, they should expect that anytime they return to the campus for either scheduled events or informal visits, they will be given the same warm welcome from the Morris College Family that they would be given by their own family.

I believe that 1988-89 has been a successful year for the College and for its students, and those successes are well documented in this yearbook. To the graduates of the Class of 1989, I hope that your lives and careers will be marked by many more successes that we all truly share together.

Sincerely,

Luns C. Richardson
President

IF

If you can keep your head when all about you
  Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
  But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
  Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
  And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream — and not make dreams your master;
  If you can think — and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
  And treat those two impostors just the same,
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
  Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
  And stoop and build'em up with worn-out tools:

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
  And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
  And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
  To serve your turn long after they are gone,

And so hold on when there is nothing in you Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
  Or walk with Kings — nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
  If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
  With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
  And — which is more — you'll be a Man, my son!

THE WORTH OF FAME

Oh! who shall lightly say, that Fame
Is nothing but an empty name!
Whilst in that sound there is a charm
The nerves to brace, the heart to warm,
As, thinking of the mighty dead.
The young from slothful couch will start,
And vow, with lifted hands outspread.
Like them to act a noble part?

Oh! who shall lightly say that Fame
Is nothing but an empty name!
When, but for those, our mighty dead,
All ages past a blank would be,
Sunk in oblivion's murky bed,
A desert bare, a shipless sea?
They are the distant objects seen,
The lofty marks of what hath been.

Oh! who shall lightly say that Fame
Is nothing but an empty name!
When memory of the mighty dead
To earth-worn pilgrim's wistful eye
The brightest rays of cheering shed,
That point to immortality?

WAITING

I wait,
Till from my veiled brows shall fall
This baffling cloud, this wearying
Thrall,
Which holds me now from knowing all;
Until my spirit-sight shall see
Into all being's mystery,
See what it really is to be!
I wait,
While rolling days in mockery fling
Such cruel loss athwart my spring,
And life flags on with broken wing;
Believing that a kindlier fate
The patient soul will compensate
For all it loses, ere too late.

I wait!
For surely every scanty seed
I plant in weakness and in need
Will blossom in perfected deed!
Mine eyes shall see its affluent crown,
Its fragrant fruitage, dropping down
Care's lowly levels, bare and brown!
I wait!
The summer of the soul is long,
Its harvests yet shall round me throng
In perfect pomp of sun and song.
In stormless mornings yet to be
I'll pluck from life's full-fruited tree
The joy to-day denied to me.

ENDURANCE

How much the heart may bear,
yet not break!
How much the flesh may suffer, and not die!
I question much if any pain or ache of soul or body brings our end more nigh;
Death chooses his own time;
till that is sworn,
All evils may be borne.
We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife,
Each nerve recoiling from the cruel steel Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life, Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal.
That still, although the trembling flesh be torn,
This also can be borne.
We see a sorrow rising in our way, and try to flee
from the approaching ill;
We seek some small escape;
we weep and pray;
But when the blow fall,
then our hearts are still,
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn, But that it can be borne.
We wind our life about
another life;
We hold it closer, dearer
than our own:
Anon it faints and fails in deathly strife, Leaving us stunned, and stricken, and alone;
But ah! we do not die with those we mourn,
This also can be borne.
Behold, we live through all things, famine, thirst, bereavement, pain; all
grief and misery,
All woe and sorrow; life
inflicts its worst on soul and body,—but we cannot die.
Though we be sick, and tired, and faint and worn, Lo, all things can be borne!

Lots of time for lots of things; Tho it's said that Time has wings, There is always time to find Ways of being sweet and kind; There is always time to share Smiles and goodness everywhere; Time to send the frowns away, Time a gentle word to say; Time for helpfulness, and time To assist the weak to climb; Time to give a little flower, Time for friendship any hour; But there is no time to spare For unkindness anywhere.

The hours we waste
are golden hours
  And stand for money lost,
For every idle minute spent
  We have to meet

FRESHMAN TALENT SHOW

The Annual Freshman Talent Program was held on Friday, September 2, 1988, at 7:00 p.m., in the Neal-Jones Auditorium. The Student Government Association assisted with the arrangements for the event. This is one of the many aspects of orientation introducing the freshmen and transfer students to their new environment.

The program consisted of numerous talents. There were monologues, singing, modeling, dancing and rapping. The high point of the evening was the presentation of freshman class officers, their advisors and queen.

The members of the class thanked their new-found family for their help in making the program a success.

A PROFILE OF A DREAM FACILITATOR

The most precious commodity of any college is its students. For our President, the positive achievements and general welfare of the students are his prime concerns. Dr. Richardson sincerely and consistently demonstrates his concern by keeping the students abreast of current events and issues concerning them and the college through lecture series, assemblies, forums, and one-to-one conversations with different resource persons and public figures. Dr. M.L. King, Jr. and Rev. Jesse Jackson's dreams live on in the examples, heart and soul of our leader.

At the Senior Dinner, President Richardson says good-bye to Robert Anthony.

President Richardson and SGA President, Gregory Dingle saying their farewells.

Celeste, a Who's Who recipient, shakes President Richardson's hand as she receives her certificate.

Excerpt from
SONG OF THE AWAKENED NEGRO
Ruby Berkeley Brown

I can succeed, I will succeed,
Nothing is able to hold me back;
I will succeed, I must succeed,
I will not stay on the beaten track.

I'm not a brute, I'm not a beast,
I am a man, as God made me;
I'm not insane. Immoral? No!
No more than other races be.

I'm learning too to trust my brother,
I'm knowing things for what they are;
This is a new road I'm traveling,
I've started, and I've not gone far.

But I'll succeed, I must succeed,
Nothing is able to hold me back;
I can succeed, I shall succeed,
I will not die on the beaten track.

Excerpt from
Last Will and Testament
Mary McLeod Bethune

I leave you a thirst for education. Knowledge is the prime need of the hour. More and more Negroes are taking full advantage of hard-won opportunities for learning, and the educational level of the Negro population is at its highest point in history. We are making greater use of the privileges inherent in living in a democracy. If we continue in this trend, we will be able to rear increasing numbers of strong, purposeful men and women, equipped with vision, mental clarity, health and education.

IN LOVING MEMORY

WHAT IS DEATH? A permanent cessation all vital functions.

NO. Death is a bodily departure from this world into a more glorious one; where there is no pain, no hurt or no disappointment . . . A place of utmost happiness and everlasting communion with God.

RICHARD DONALD LAWSON

Richard Donald Lawson, a 1988 graduate, kept the motto of "Enter to Learn: Depart to Serve". He entered Morris College in the fall of 1984 and departed to serve in May, 1988. On his way home from work, Donald met with an untimely demise.

Donald was well-liked by his peers and the faculty and staff. He was a member of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc., a student leader, a peer counselor and a member of the Morris College Chorale. He was committed to "academic excellence".

The ray of sunshine that was once brought to us by him is now a beam brighter than the human eyes can see.

MRS. MINNIE L. WASHINGTON

The untimely home-going of Mrs. Minnie L. Washington on May 28, 1989, indicated an end of fifteen years of service to the College. Mrs. Washington was a very faithful, hardworking member of the College family. For many years, she served as secretary for different offices, but her last position was part-time secretary in the Office of the President.

The College family will sadly miss her smiling face and warm greetings.

Revelation 21:3,4 "And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.

And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away."

DR. SYED AMANUDDIN

After I have departed from this corporeal frame
when you pick up this book an read make me your dream
make me a dream of a century ago hold me to your eyes — a dull printed page
  suddenly alive
let the words swell
  into images of life
  recreating me in you see me sparkle in your eyes
n feel me rush into your veins when you are alive my reader
  i too am alive.

— Syed Amanuddin

Dr. Syed Amanuddin served as a member of the College faculty from September, 1970 to June, 1989. In his last capacity, he served as Chairperson of the Division of Humanities. Dr. Amanuddin was highly respected for his hard work and dedication.

He was born and reared in the City of Mysore. He was educated at the University of Mysore (B.A. Hons. and M.A.) and Bowling Green State University (Ph.D.). He had taught English at Osmania University, Bowling Green State University, and pursued research at Duke University as Lilly Scholar in the Humanities. He had published nine books of poetry, a novel, and collections of essays and plays. His other interests were painting, photography and travelling.

To Morris College, he leaves a legacy of lifelong thirst for learning of the Arts and a well-loved collection of poetry that will be a guidepost for students now and in the future.

The College family regrets the loss of such a fine scholar, but his presence will linger in the hearts and minds of all who came in contact with him, directly or indirectly. He was highly respected for his work.

To the memory of Dr. Amanuddin, here are some of his poems.

Here's the poetry man you said
my name is aman I said though I like poetryman in a way sounds like candyman icecreamman though they sell n I create

Yes icecreamman creates too when he rings the bell children fumble through flavors as colors crowd their minds

that's what happens to me too when the bell rings in my soul as now when you stand before me sipping wine n talking of blake meditation n drugs

Yes you rang the bell in me here's the icecream for you this poem

Searching for a meaning in life
  n the universe
I rushed to the library
  n rejoiced at so much wisdom pieced n packed into the bookshelf
I heard the poets sing
I listened to the philosophers argue
I watched the scientists describe
I observed the legislators prescribe
I moved with the historians in the circular paths of human achievements

then I paused a while by the window n saw the landscape covered with snow the distant hills the nearby homes n trees n the dirty street
  all merged into one whiteness this beauty had a strange wisdom suddenly I ceased being a mind.

CORONATION OF EXPRESSIONS
ELEGANCE

Rachel's Acceptance . . .

"Each time I reach a milestone, I am prompted to reflect on life's important moments so deserving of respect. This event is no exception for I have achieved one more. I have crossed another threshold, opened still another door."

May my reign bring a new meaning to beauty and also a new meaning to life. Let this be my destiny to love, to live, to begin each day with the feeling that what is desired is also possible. Having been chosen to represent you as Miss Morris College is indeed an honor and of course a pleasure. With God on my side, I will continue to represent you to the best of my God given ability.

In this world of uncertainty and confusion, I am always mindful of the pressure ingrained in the responsibilities of occupying a throne. I realize that people expect more of me than they do of themselves; therefore, I vow my life to you, the Morris College Family, during the period in which I occupy the throne. I look forward to the many challenges that lie ahead of me with a promise to provide only great expectations.

With gratitude to God, President Richardson, Dean Vereen-Gordon, Dean Black, Ms. Janet Fields, Student Government Association, Faculty, Staff, Morris College Student Body, family and friends, good evening. It is my innermost pleasure to stand before you tonight as Miss Morris College. I have dreamed of this once in a lifetime occasion many nights and finally I have turned my dream into reality. As Miss Morris, I look forward to sharing part of me with you. I am here to promote the spirit of Christian joy to uplift the legendary purpose and lifestyle of the Morris College family, to provide a helping hand in any setting, and to challenge you, along with myself to strive for excellence and believe that all things can be done through Christ who strengthens us all.

I am also proud to say tonight that my philosophy of life inspired me to accept the negative criticism designed to tear me apart and force me to give up all hope. Instead, I have used it to my advantage. It gives me the will power to hold my head high and face all challenges with hope.

Although my father died five years ago, I feel a special sensation of his presence here tonight. At this time, it gives me distress, yet joy, to remember my father during this special occasion.

I thank the student body and friends for your loyal support. I thank each of you here tonight for sharing this joyous occasion with me. The ultimate joy is that love is given to us to give to one another. I give of my love to you with sincere thanks and appreciation. My reign is the start of it.

MORRIS COLLEGE

Reverend Doctor Isaiah Harvey
Dean, School of Religion

The Morris College School of Religion operates on the basic philosophy that the Black Clergy and Laity must be trained to serve the needs of contemporary American society.

In its endeavor to implement the school's purpose and philosophy, programs have been designed to afford students the necessary discipline to prepare them for the ministry. The incoming student is accepted at his/her level with the understanding that he/she will make the necessary effort to work toward proficiency in his/her area of study. Special attention is given to the spoken word.

In an effort to promote and provide a maximum program that will meet the individual needs of all the students, the school offers the following:

1. A degree program geared to those preachers seeking the Bachelor's degree in either Theology or Divinity.
2. A non-degree or certificate program offered through the Extension and Continuing Education Program which affords training to preachers and Christian workers in the local communities.

The curriculum embraces classical subjects as exemplified in the traditional theological rootage as well as contemporary subjects related by the new direction in clinical training.

Religion is meant to be bread for daily use, not cake for special occasions.

One of the aims of religion is to encourage us to live the way we say we believe.

Human things must be known to be loved; but Divine things must be loved to be known.

BLOOD DRIVE

The Red Cross, along with the Xi Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha, sponsored its 10th annual Blood Drive from 10 a.m. — 3 p.m. January 26, 1989, at Morris College.

The drive produced 68 pints this year which did not quite reach last year's record of 78 pints donated. However, we are most fortunate and highly appreciative of those concerned students who did give.

The Alphas reached a new milestone with a total of 690 pints donated over a ten year period.

Mr. Frederick Love, President of the Xi Epsilon Chapter, said, "We feel that the drives over the years have been successful. The overall turnout of the student body has been good, and we hope that next year's drive will be even more successful."

HIGH

April 8, 1989, Mrs. Queen Spann, Director of Admissions, with the assistance of the administration, faculty and staff, hosted High School Visitation Day.

The primary purpose was to focus attention on problem areas for college-bound students. The event attracted 250 high school students, along with their parents and/or guardians, to the Morris College Campus.

Activities included a general assembly in which information was given on how to meet the cost of a college education, the educational program and support services. The assembly was followed by informal visits with division chairpersons in a setting depicting special opportunities of degree majors.

A fellowship luncheon in the dining hall and a talent program by Morris College students were also included as features for the day.

KEEPING IT ALIVE THROUGH SPORTS

THE ATHLETES' PRAYER

Oh Heavenly Father and Creator of all things, guide me for I am the humble mortal athlete You created in Your likeness.

I ask not for riches or fame, not even more opportunities; instead, I ask for guidance that I better utilize my God- given abilities and opportunities.

Like no other creature on earth, You have blessed my mind and body to perform with great skill, grace and power. You have instilled in my soul a burning desire to excel to limits that only You know.

Dear Lord, without Your guidance my enthusiasm is weak and my spirit is low, and I will fall short of all the potential You've blessed me with.

The field I have chosen is abundant with opportunity; yet, it is full of heartbreak and despair.

Help me focus a clear vision of the pleasure and the triumph that accompany victory and achievement; yet, may I be exposed to the agonies of defeat so that my experience is genuine.

I have already walked with merchant of chaos and stumbled in ignorance.

Guide my words and deeds that they may be fruitful to the minds and souls of many who aspire high achievement but lack inspiration.

Expose me to hate, greed, and fear so they are no strangers to me; yet, fill my heart with love and compassion so that I will turn strangers into friends.

May I soar like the eagle against my opponents for this is my goal.

May my reactions be as quick and forceful as the tiger for many long hours do I practice and train for this.

Lord, bless me with the vision of the hawk so that my mind perceives things when my eyes do not.

Discipline me in the habit of trying, and trying again, in spite of my defeats so that my place in life shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

Favor me with the intelligence to know that problems and suffering are but a test of my faith, and devotion, and problems/suffering shall come to pass.

When it is my time to face failure, help me confront this imposter with grace and courage so that I never fear failure.

Bless me with the wisdom to learn from the deceit of failure for he is only a small defeat in a lifelong battle, and most of all, he is temporary (It too will Pass).

But all these things be only if it's thy will, Heavenly Father, for I honor Thy will. I am but an humble athlete; yet, Thou hast made me in Thine own image, and different from all other creatures on earth. Verily, there must be a special place for me.

In Jesus Christ's name, guide this athlete, God.

It seems like only yesterday when I took office. Almost as soon as I got in and settled down, people are telling me that it is time to say "good-bye." The new candidates are campaigning harder than ever and the entire student body is excited about getting their new SGA President. Yeah! I guess it is time to say "good-bye."

First of all, I want to thank the student body for affording me the opportunity to represent them. You believed in me enough to elect me, and once I was elected, you went even further to support me. As in any profession or position, one experiences ups and downs, and this one was no different. There were frustrations. There were disappointments, but there were so many positive things to happen until it was rather easy to forget about negatives.

I can truly say that serving as president of the Student Government Association was one of the most rewarding experiences I have ever had. It has helped me to become a better listener. It has helped me to become a better student. It has helped me become a better thinker. It has helped me become a better decision maker. It has helped me become a better leader, and most importantly, it has helped me to become a better person. I have enjoyed working with the student body, and I have enjoyed working for students on an individual basis. I am proud of what we were able to accomplish as a student body. My only regret is that we were not able to do more.

It warms my heart to know that there are three capable candidates campaigning for the position of SGA President. I do not know who will win, but I am sure that the student body will have even better leadership next term. Although I did not get to know each of you personally, I care for all of you.

To the faculty, staff, and administration, thanks for your full support. When I called on you, you were there. You made my job much easier, and you helped me make this year a successful one. Yes, it is time to say good-bye; but I will never forget my days at Morris College. Morris College will always be home!!!

To the new officers, good luck!

I HAVE A DREAM

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.
August 28, 1963 — March on Washington

I say to you today, my friends, even though we face the difficulties of today and tomorrow, I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream. I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal.'

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave-owners, will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.

I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering with the heat of injustice, sweltering with the heat of oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice. I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. I have a dream today.

I have a dream that one day down in Alabama with its vicious racists, with its governor having his lips dripping with the words of interposition and nullification — one day right there in Alabama, little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls as sisters and brothers.

I have a dream today.

I have a dream that one day every valley shall be exalted, every hill and mountain shall be made low, the rough places will be made plain and the crooked places will be made straight, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together.

This is our hope. This is the faith that I go back to the South with. With this faith we will be able to hew out of the mountain of despair a stone of hope. With this faith we will be able to transform the jangling discords of our nation into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood. With this faith we will be able to work together, to pray together, to stand up for freedom together, knowing that we will be free one day.

This will be the day when all of God's children will be able to sing with new meaning:

'My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims' pride,
From every mountain-side
Let Freedom ring.'

And if America is to be a great nation, this must become true. So let freedom ring from the prodigious hill tops of New Hampshire. Let freedom ring from the mighty mountains of New York. Let freedom ring from the heightening Alleghenies of Pennsylvania. Let freedom ring from the curvaceous slopes of California. But not only that, let freedom ring from Stone Mountain of Georgia.

Let freedom ring from Lookout Mountain of Tennessee.

Let freedom ring from every hill and molehill of Mississippi. From every mountainside, let freedom ring. And when we allow freedom to ring, when we let it ring from every village, from every hamlet, from every state and every city, we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual: 'Free at last! free at last! Thank God almighty, we are free at last!"

SPECIAL VISIT

The change in America that has taken place in the last thirty years ocurred because somebody thought they could make a difference. The changes did not come from Wall Street or the White House or the Congress or the Courts, it always started by some young persons who thought they could, in fact, make a difference.

Rosa Parks got on a bus one day, the sign above the driver's head read: "Colored seats in the rear, White seats in the front. Violators will be punished by law". She refused to go to the back of the bus and she was arrested. Dr. King went to her rescue, a 26 year old student and told her it's better to walk in dignity than to walk in shame. One person can make a difference.

In 1957, nine students in Little Rock Central High in Arkansas went to school one day lead by the Army. They refused to bow. They made a difference.

In the next few years, young Americans died so that we might live. Many of us were killed in coldblood about this right to vote. Schwerner, Goodman and Chaney, two Jews and an Afro-American were bulldozed to death with their eyes wide open in Philadelphia and Mississippi about this right to vote. Jimmy Lee Jackson, a fifteen year old Afro-American student was shot and killed in Marion, Alabama about this right to vote. Four darling little girls blown up in a church in Birmingham, Alabama one Sunday morning all about the right to vote. They made a difference.

You must make a difference. Whenever students are sober and sane and sensitive and put hope in their brains and not dope in their veins. They can always make a difference.

Because they died, your generation has the power. John Kennedy was elected by a margin of a hundred and twelve thousand votes, less than one vote per precinct. Everybody counts. Nixon beat Humphrey by five hundred and fifty thousand votes. Carter beat Ford by a million and seven. Fewer than three million votes elected three presidents in sixteen years.

Today, there is 3.2 million high school seniors alone graduating. They should come across that stage with a diploma in one hand and a voting card in the other. Because they can make a difference.

Twelve million college students must vote. You have the power and you must have the attitude. It's not my aptitude but my attitude that determines my altitude or how high I will go. My mind is a pearl and I can learn anything in the world. Just because it rains, I don't have to drown. I may have been born in the slums, but the slums was not born in me. I can rise about my circumstances. Hands that once picked cotton can now pick presidents. You want to free Mandela and free South Africa, lets vote about it. Lets vote about it! Let's vote about it!

KEEP HOPE ALIVE

Excerpt from Jesse L. Jackson
Inaugural Address at the 1988 Democratic Convention

As a testatment to the struggles of those who have gone before; as a legacy for those who will come after; as a tribute to the endurance, the patience, the courage of our forefathers and mothers; as an assurance that their prayers are being answered, their work has not been in vain, and hope is eternal.

Shall we expand, be inclusive, find unity and power; or suffer division and impotence.

When people come together, flowers always flourish and the air is rich with the aroma of a new spring.

Take New York, the dynamic metropolis. What makes New York so special? It is the invitation of the Statue of Liberty — give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses who yearn to breather free. Not restricted to English only. Many people, many cultures, many languages — with one thing in common, the yearn to breathe free. Common ground!

Whether you're a hawk or a dove, you're just a bird living in the same environment, in the same world.

The Bible teaches that when lions and lambs lie down together, none will be afraid and there will be peace in the valley. It sounds impossible. Lions eat lambs. Lambs sensibly flee from lions. But even lions and lambs find common ground. Why? Because neither lions nor lambs want the forest to catch on fire. Neither lions nor lambs want acid rain to fall. Neither lions nor lambs can survive nuclear war. If lions and lambs can find common ground, surely, we can as well, as civilized people.

The only time that we win is when we come together. When we do not come together, we never win.

Common ground. Easier said than done. Where do you find common ground at the point of challenge?

Common ground. What is leadership if not present help in a time of crisis?

We need a real war on drugs. You can't just say no. It's deeper than that. You can't just get a palm reader or an astrologer; it's more profound than that.

I'm often asked: "Jesse, why do you take on these tough issues? They're not very political. We can't win that way".

If an issue is morally right, it will eventually be political. It may be political and never be right. Fannie Lou Hamer didn't have the most votes in Atlantic City, but her principles have outlasted every delegate who voted to lock her out. Rosa Parks did not have the most votes, but she was morally right. Dr. King didn't have the most votes about the Vietnam War, but he was morally right. If we're principled first, our politics will fall in place.

Jesse, why did you take these big bold initiatives? A poem by an unknown author went something like this: We mastered the air, we've conquered the sea, and annihilated distance and prolonged life, we were not wise enough to live on this earth without war and without hate.

As for Jesse Jackson, I'm tired of sailing by little boat, far inside the harbor bar. I want to go out where the big ships float, out on the deep where the great ones are. And should my frail craft prove too slight, the waves that sweep those billows o'er, I'd rather go down in a stirring fight than drown to death in the sheltered shore.

We've got to go out, my friends, where the big boats are.

And then, for our children, young America, hold your head high now. We can win. We must not lose you to drugs and violence, premature pregnancy, suicide, cynicism, pessimism and despair. We can win.

Wherever you are young America, I challenge you to hope and to dream. Don't submerge your dreams. Exercise above all else, even on drugs, dream of the day you're drug-free. Even in the gutter, dream of the day that you'll be up on your feet again. You must never stop dreaming. Face reality, yes. But don't stop with the way things are: dream of things as they ought to be. Dream. Face pain, but love, hope, faith, and dreams will help you rise above the pain.

Use hope and imagination as weapons of survival and progress, but you keep on dreaming, young America. Dream of peace. Peace is rational and reasonable. War is irrational in this age and unwinnable.

Dream of teachers who teach for life and not for living. Dream of doctors who are concerned more about public health than private wealth. Dream of lawyers more concerned about justice that a judgeship. Dream of preachers who are concerned more about prophecy than profittering. Dream on the high road of sound values.

And in America, as we go forth to September, October and November and then beyond, America must never surrender to a high moral challenge.

Do not surrender to drugs. The best drug policy is a no first use. Don't surrender with needles and cynicism. Let's have no first use on the one hand, or clinics on the other. Never surrender, young America.

Go forward. America must never surrender to malnutrition. We can feed the hungry and clothe the naked. We must never surrender. We must go forward. We must never surrender to illiteracy. Invest in our children. Never surrender; and go forward.

And no one should look down on you, but sometimes mean people do. The only justification we have for looking down on someone is that we're going to stoop and pick them up. But even in your wheelchairs, don't you give up. We cannot forget 50 years ago when our backs were against the wall, Roosevelt was in a wheelchair. I would rather have Roosevelt in a wheelchair than Reagan and Bush on a horse. Don't you surrender and don't you give up.

You must not surrender. You may or may not get there, but just know that you're qualified and you hold on and hold out. We must never surrender. America will get better and better. Keep hope alive. Keep hope alive. Keep hope alive. Forever and beyond, keep hope alive!

I love you very much. I love you very much.

MORRIS-BENEDICT PASTORS' AND CHRISTIAN WORKERS' CONFERENCE

The annual Morris-Benedict Pastors' and Christian Workers' Conference was held at Morris College, May 29 through June 1, 1989.

The conference is held each year alternating between the campuses of Morris College in Sumter and Benedict College in Columbia. It is sponsored by the colleges along with the Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina, and the Women's Baptist State Convention.

Dialogue sessions were held each day in order to give persons an opportunity to address their questions to the leaders and conference preacher. Along with lectures and dialogue sessions, the conference held evening worship programs. Music was provided by churches in the community.

The conference preacher was the Reverend Doctor Manuel Scott, Sr., pastor of Saint John Missionary Baptist Church, Dallas, Texas. Scott received the B.A. and D.D. degrees from Bishop College, Dallas, TX. He also received the D.D. degree from Texas College, Tyler, TX.

Lecturers and workshop leaders include the Reverend John Mendez, pastor, Emmanuel Baptist Church, Winston-Salem, NC; Dr. Samuel Proctor, pastor of Abyssinian Baptist Church, New York, NY; Dr. Edward P. Wimberly, pastor, Garrett Evangelical Theological Seminary, Evanston, IL and Dr. Henry E. Hardin, former president of Morris College.

Greetings were brought by Dr. Luns C. Richardson, host president, Morris College; Dr. Marshall Grigsby, president, Benedict College; Dr. Mamie N. Coker, president, Woman's Convention; and Dr. S.C. Cureton, president, Baptist E & M State Convention.

Dr. Richardson and Dean Harvey

Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.

And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up.

Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth;

Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

Charity never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.

— I Corinthians 13: 1-8

ARMY-R.O.T.C.

HORNET COMPANY

The Army-R.O.T.C., Hornet Company, held the fourth Annual Presidential Pass-In-Review and Awards Ceremony Thursday, May 4 at 4:00 p.m. Awards were presented to deserving cadets for their achievements by Dr. Luns C. Richardson. Cadets honored were CDT/2LT Derrick Hayes, CDT/CPT Timothy Montgomery, CDT/SSG Dorthy Singleton, CDT/SSG Everett Johnson, CDT/CPL Corey Sweetenburg, CDT Georgia McNeil and CDT Bernadette R. Hampton. The reviewing officer for the ceremony was Lieutenant Colonel John Lockard, Professor of Military Science at the University of South Carolina.

The social highlight of the year by the program was the Annual Military Ball held on Friday, March 21, 1989, at the Shaw Air Force Base Officers Club. The speaker for the occasion was Brigadier General Wallace C. Arnold R.O.T.C. Region Commander. Brigadier General Arnold challenged the one hundred and eleven cadets, officers, faculty, and staff members present "to set high standards for themselves and to strive to exceed them everyday". During the Ball, the Drill Team performed an honor guard. With their sabres, they created an arch for the introduction of the senior cadets and their dates.

CLASSNIGHT ACTIVITIES

Class Night activities were held on Friday, May 12, 1989, at 7:00 p.m., in the Neal-Jones Auditorium. Ericson Lanier, Class President, presented Eugene Commander, Class President of 1989-90, with the traditional candle and scroll ceremony. Mr. Lanier, along with fellow classmates, reflected on past accomplishments and failures and placed challenges before the rising seniors to do as well or better for the coming year.

Immediately following the class night program, the President's Dinner honoring seniors was held in the Daniels Dining Hall. During the dinner, more good-byes were said by the President of the Senior Class, President of the Student Government Association, Miss Morris College, Senior Class Advisor, Dean of Student Affairs, Dean of Academic Affairs, and the President of the College.

The climax of the evening was the Annual giving of gifts by President Richardson, along with the delicious steaks dinner and his compliments.

Don't Quit

When things go wrong
as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
When the funds are low,
and the debts are high,
And you want to smile,
but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing
you down a bit—
Rest if you must,
but don't you quit.

Success is failure
turned inside out,
The silver tint of
the clouds of doubt,
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when
it seems afar.
So, stick to the fight
when you're hardest hit—
It's when things go wrong that you mustn't quit.

On The Value of Time

God's Minute

I have only just a minute
Only sixty seconds in it,
Forced upon me, can't refuse it,
Didn't seek it, didn't choose it,
But it's up to me to use it,
I must suffer if I lose it,
Give account if I abuse it,
Just a tiny little minute,
But eternity is in it.

Time is among our most valuable possessions.
Every person has twenty-four hours each day he or she lives.
Some make use of time and some waste it away.
At best, the time of our present lives is short.
It can be only from the cradle to the grave.
Only God knows how long that will be.
Someone has said, "Yesterday is a cancelled check, tomorrow is a check uncashed, today is cash in the pocket," make use of your precious gift of time!

Ossie Davis
Actor and Renowned Playwright

1989 Commencement Exercise

Mr. Ossie Davis, actor and renowned playwright, was born in Cogdell, Georgia; finished high school in Waycross, Georgia and attended Howard University, Washington, D.C. where he met and studied under Dr. Alain LeRoy Locke, a Black Rhodes Scholar, and Sterling A. Brown, a distinguished poet.

In New York, he joined a Harlem theatre group called Rose McClendon Players, under the direction of Dick Campbell and Muriel Rahn. He later studied acting under Paul Mann and Lloyd Richards. He appeared in such noted plays as Purlie Victorious (of which he was author and the star); A Raisin in the Sun; Green Pastures; and Anna Lucasta.

The audience listened as Mr. Davis talked about "The Difference Between a Job and a Commitment."

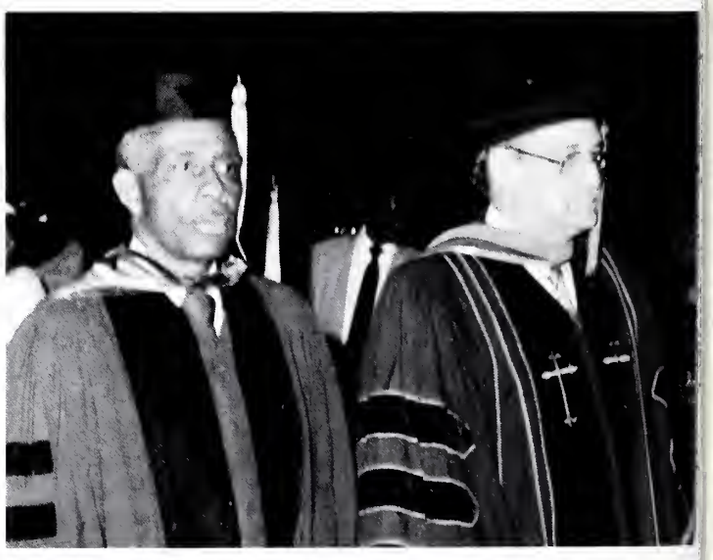
In his opening remarks, Davis told the graduates to do what they do best so long as it keeps them firmly cemented to the membership of the body of the Church. "You came in pursuit of the goal to realize your ambition and to satisfy parents, relatives and friends. What kept you going was personal ambition. It is the fire that stirs and moves the engine of progress. Without ambition a person is limited and crippled," he said.

The gravel-voice commentator appeared inspired as he began to raise his voice at the end of the talk. The self-professed "elder of the Tribe" acknowledged that his time to pass the baton is not as long as it has been. He said, " . . . I can go in the knowledge that all the things that I and my generation have left undone are still not hopelessly loss but that the sons and daughters will keep on working on the building."

"We have black group responsibilities along with statistics of black people buying power," he said, "access to cash doesn't give power, it is the control of it."

"Know power; acquire power; share power, but know that power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely. All power resides in the ultimate power and that power is not of this world but causes this world to be," he said. Davis said "The importance of the black church in the community can never be underestimated." Comparing it to an anchor that can withstand the roughest storm," he said, "Let us not ever loose our anchor."

Ossie Davis and President Richardson sternly look on while in the procession.



Drs. Johnson and Cureton take their places in the procession.

Drs. Vereen-Gordon and Isaiah Harvey, Dean of Academic Affairs and School of Religion respectively will confer degrees from their respective areas.

On Sunday, May 14, one-hundred Morris College graduating students were joined by proud parents, friends and well-wishers to hear the words of Ossie Davis, renowned actor/playwright.

A total of 33 students received bachelor of arts degrees; ten bachelor of fine arts degrees were awarded; 47 received bachelor of science degrees and eight received bachelor of science in education degrees. Also, the Morris College School of Religion graduated two candidates with the bachelor of theology degree.

EDITOR'S CORNER

We would like to thank the entire Morris College Family for your cooperation and patience in the completion of the 1989 edition of the Hornet Yearbook. It is our sincere hope that you enjoy this book and that you have continued success, especially to the graduating class of 1989.

We would like to especially thank the President, Dr. Luns C. Richardson and the administration, Herff Jones Yearbook Company and Mr. Steve Karelitz, our representative.

I would like to say an extra special thanks to Ms. Soraya Purvis, Ms. Melissa Lee, Ms. Melissa White and Ms. Audrey L. Gibson, our advisor.

Morris College remembers: It's not where you are from,
but where you are going,
that's important.

It's not what they call you,
but what you answer to,
that's matters.

So, don't worry about where you are coming from,
but where you are going.
Don't worry about
what they call you,
but what you answer to.
